THE STATE BOARD OF CHARITIES.

There is bill before the legislature which seeks to abolish the state board of charities. The bill provides that the work of the board shall be done by the state board of supervision which has the management of all the charitable, penal and reformatory institutions of the state. Even if the bill is not a piece of spite-work, the interest of a very large class of chronic insane, as well as the demands of our jails and poor-house would strongly suggest the wisdom of keeping the state board of charities and reform intact. There is a good deal of important work for it to do. It has a work to do that the state board of supervision would not have time to do without a detriment to the state institutions.

Ex-Governor Knisk has some practical ideas in regard to the subject. In an interview the other day in Milwaukee he said it would be bad policy to abolish the board and impose upon the state board of supervision the work which properly belongs to another board, and he adds:

That is my view of it. The fifteen county asylums now in operation in the state, I think, compare favorably with any other of that class of asylums anywhere in the United States. The board of charities and reform under the law has entire control over all these asylums, together with the poorhouses and jails, and I think it would be very bad policy to discontinue its services. The vast amount of work could not be well done by the state board of supervision. They have already several institutions which require all their attention and time. Charitable and penal institutions in Wisconsin, so far as management goes, compare favorably with those of any state in the union, and the system of management has been complimented by other states.

These are the records of a practical man of a broad business mind. And the governor is right. The special work of the state board of charities and reform is to hold supervision over all the county asylums, jails and poor houses in the state. The board created the county asylum system and in that did a good thing. It is the best plan ever devised for caring for the chronic insane. That class of patients have no business in a large state institution. They are cared for just as well in county asylums. Then the supervision of the jails and poor houses is an important matter. There has been great reform in the management of these county institutions during the past few years, and this reform is due to the labors of the state board of charities.

With the constantly increasing number of chronic insane, of the poor in poor-houses and of the inmates of jails, the state can afford to spend a few thousand dollars for the sake of having these county institutions under practical and thorough supervision. Intelligent men should remember that there is no state in the Union that pays less for the support of all its unfortunate classes, according to the population, than Wisconsin, and certainly there is no state that takes better care of the unfortunate under its charge.

THE COUNTY OPTION BILL.

A committee of gentlemen consisting of the Hon. John A. Johnson, the Rev. Charles H. Richards, D. D., Dr. Charles S. Shelton, Samuel A. Harper, Edward P. Wheeler, and F. J. Lamb, have in charge a county option bill which has been introduced in the legislature. This committee has issued an address to the people on the subject of county option. Some of the points in the address, are as follows:

From many quarters of our state there arises an urgent demand for improvement in our laws on the liquor question. This demand comes from no one party or class, but from large numbers in all parties and from all classes. All admit that the liquor traffic is a dangerous traffic, fraught with alarming perils to the health, the morals, the business prosperity, and the general welfare of our commonwealth. The state has already recognized it as a dangerous business, by the taxes and restrictions it has already placed upon it.

In all measures proposed for such legislation in Wisconsin, we must bear in mind the unique position of this state, in respect to the diversity of its population. Widely different classes are grouped in localities, which represent distinct views on this question, so that what will suit one county will be exceedingly distasteful to another county.

A county option bill has been introduced in the legislature, which provides that on petition of at least ten per cent of the qualified voters of any county to the county judge, a special election shall be ordered by him, at which the voters shall decide by their ballots whether a license shall be granted within the limits of that county for the sale of intoxicating liquors, or whether such sale shall be forbidden; and further providing that the question shall not be resubmitted to the people until the expiration of three years.

The address then closes with the request that all persons interested in the cause of greater improvement in our liquor laws shall petition the legislature to pass this bill. It suggests that petitions should be circulated in each town, village, and city in the state, and sent to F. H. Grube, secretary of the committee at Madison.

There is a strong temperance element in Wisconsin that want county option tried. They did not favor an attempt to get constitutional prohibition for the chances are against the success of such a movement. But they believe that county option is the next best thing, and that through its influence the saloons can be wiped out of nearly half the counties in the state. The matter is one of very great importance, and it demands the soberest thought and the best judgment, not only of the temperance people, but of the legislature.

A Waupun dispatch gives the following information:

WAUPUN, Feb. 13.—Thomas Ryan, alias Brown, who escaped from prison here while under sentence for a burglary at Washburn, is to be hanged at Bismarck, Dak., for killing Policeman Poul, at Moorhead, last fall. When he came to Wisconsin in February, 1887, after serving a long term in the Dakota prison, he at once commenced plundering places in Superior, Ashland, Bayfield and Washburn, and was captured at the latter place, where he was detected in the act of robbing a depot and overhauling a long chase on the ice of Chequamegon Bay. After escaping from prison here, he returned to Dakota and renewed his career with the stated result.

Ryan made his escape in a very peculiar way. He was in the chapel early last fall attending night school, and when the prisoners were leaving the room, Ryan got in the rear of the column, and succeeded in hiding under a bench until all the prisoners and the janitor had gone down stairs. He then raised a window, and by means of an electric light wire let himself down to the ground. He found a ladder in rear of the shops with which he scaled the walls and made his escape. He is a desperate character and it is not strange that he should reach the fate that confronts him.

The parting words of democratic newspapers to the democratic secretary of state, won't give that statesman very much comfort. The Atlanta Constitution says:

It is said that Bismarck is threatened with paralysis. It is a paralysis that is catching. With this disease he has attacked a great many people, including Secretary Bayard.

The New York World makes a statement which expresses the popular verdict:

Ex-Congressman Sewall has reason to be grateful to the secretary of state. Were the two men running against each other at polls for the Hammon Consulship the public would choose Sewall by an overwhelming majority.

The Denver Times, the stalwart among the independent papers of the plains, takes time to remark:

It is plain that Bismarck is only playing for time, and each day only serves to strengthen Germany's grip on these islands. Sister Bayard is willing to talk, but he is unwilling to act. He seems to dread Bismarck'srown more than he does the contempt of his fellow citizens. The only satisfaction the people have at the knowledge that before the conference is held the Delaware failure will be succeeded by the Prince of American statesmen, James G. Blaine.

A dispatch from Madison says that "the Hon. Joseph V. Quarles, who was recently appointed on the board of university regents, has finally decided to accept. He has felt that he could not give up the time necessary to fulfill the duties of the position, but Governor Hoard and more especially the officers of the university have to-day been so urgent in their request for him to remain that he has precisely decided not to resign. Mr. Quarles feels highly honored by the appointment and says that he would like very much to retain the office, and it is only a sense of his inability to give the necessary attention to the university that has caused his inclination to resign."

Alfred P. Edgerton, having been bounced from his soft place in the civil service commission, is letting some rather salty truths escape him. He says: "Mr. Thompson, whom Mr. Cleveland has appointed to fill my place, has done more than any man to fill the treasury department with unreconstructed rebels and he has distributed positions with lavish hands until loyal men stood no show of favor." That is not surprising. The Thompson man is the very kind of a politician this administration likes. Cleveland has a very warm site for all rebels.

The New York World, democratic, makes a loud call on O. R. Breckinridge, of the Second District of Arkansas: "It would be a manly act for him to refuse a seat which bears a taint, and the American people always admire and reward manliness." But he won't obey that call. He got rid of Clayton by means of a bullet, that he might retain his seat in congress. A blood stained seat will not touch the conscience of a man like Breckinridge.

The report from Baltimore is that Mr. Blaine has accepted the position of secretary of state. This may be a surprise to General Harrison as well as to Mr. Blaine.

In about two weeks these daring cabinet-makers will be forcibly struck with the idea that General Harrison knows as much about cabinet-making as they do.

CHICAGO TO CALIFORNIA.

Without Change of Cars.
The Santa Fe Route is now running a Pullman Vestibule Sleeping Car from Chicago to San Diego, via Los Angeles, without change. The train leaves Dearborn Station, Chicago, every night at 11 o'clock. This is a great attraction and an unequalled accommodation for passengers. Office, 212 Clark street, corner Adams.

Bowles and Smith Identify Themselves.
GENEVA, Ill., Feb. 14.—Bowles and Smith, the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy dynamiters, were brought to Geneva Wednesday afternoon by Deputy United States Marshal Hayes. They were taken before the grand jury to certify to their identity on the original indictment, as an error had been made in it by the State's attorney.

St. Petersburg.—The Amer of Afghanistan is circulating a rumor of approaching war with Russia. It is alleged that he is sending 200 persons daily for interfering with frontier traffic.

Oh, give me teeth sound, white and neat.
Oh, give me breath that pure and sweet.
Oh, give me eyes, beautiful gums,
And I will not wash my face in tears.
Whatever trouble may befall,
With SODA DENT I'll meet them all.

THE WISCONSIN LEGISLATURE.

Petitions Against the Passage of the Taylor Bill Still Pouring into Both Houses.

The Assemblymen Want to Adjourn and Attend the Harrison Inauguration

The Senate Confirms the Appointment of Stark and Thorne.

Special to the Gazette.

MADISON, Feb. 14.—The house this morning defeated a motion to refer cost of additional printing on the blue book to commissioners of printing instead of leaving it entirely with the secretary of state, as provided by the bill.

A motion to postpone the bill to divide Ashland county, was defeated and a long discussion ensued, speeches were made in favor and against the bill, and finally further debate was shut off until evening.

A joint resolution was introduced to adjourn the legislature from March 3 to 7 to give the members an opportunity to attend Harrison's inauguration.

Bills were introduced to abolish the state board of supervision and extending their powers to the state board of charities and reform.

Providing for the assessment of mortgages.

Requiring banks to stamp and destroy counterfeit money.

Prohibiting cock and dog fighting.

For the punishment of offenders and confiscation of property.

To encourage the development of lead mining in the southwestern portion of the state.

In the senate forty remonstrances against the passage of the Taylor bill, and four in favor of the bill were presented.

Bills were introduced authorizing the governor to designate a day in the year to be observed as arbor day, and to make the same a legal holiday.

Authorizing the Green Bay and Mississippi canal company to build and maintain a dam across Fox river, in Outagamie county.

The special committee to whom was referred the governor's appointment of H. M. Stark to be labor statistician, and A. D. K. Thorne, member of the state board of health, reported favorably and they were confirmed.

DRAMATIC NOTES

Salvini will play at Palmer's theater next season for three weeks and Charles Wyndham will follow him. This will be in October and Wyndham will play up to the holiday season.

Joseph Jefferson proposes to have in his company next season Mrs. John Drew, Helen Dauray, John Gilbert, E. J. Buckley and C. W. Coulson. Mr. Jefferson is furnishing an example which other leading stars in his profession might profitably follow. He realizes the fact that a star supported is an imposition on the public which pays to see him.

The distinguished Wagnerian conductor, Herbert Levi, whose death, with many touching obituary remarks, was reported last summer in nearly every one of the leading papers in either hemisphere, is now entirely convalescent and has resumed his duties at the Munich opera house. He has all the obituary notices pasted in an album and they afford him vastly amusing if somewhat monotonous reading.

Nate Salisbury, just before leaving for Paris to prepare for the opening of the Buffalo Bill Wild West show, said that when the show opened in the French capital it would be somewhat different from what it had been before. "We are taking a number of French half-breeds with us from Canada, and we will endeavor to give a picture of life in Canada when it was first settled by the French."

They say that Manager John Stetson went to church the other day. That almost spoils the story, but here's the rest of it: The clergyman said in his sermon "The Wages of Sin," which has been used for the title of a well-known play. Stetson waited until the services were finished and then sought out the minister to ask what he would charge to take his text the following Sunday from "The Still Alarm."

The Rev. Madison C. Peters of Philadelphia has been preaching a sermon from the commandment against bearing false witness, in which he defended the theater against the wholesale charges of wickedness brought against it. He recognizes its evils, but seems to be one of the few clerical gentlemen who have attained a glimpse of the truth that in this world is an unmitigated evil, and any other view is to impeach the sense of the power of the world's Creator.

Some newspaper writers have been discussing Marie Wainwright's notion that Rosalind should not wear boots or leggings, but show her legs in tights. Stage tights would stand as much show in a forest as the "cat without claws" in the profane proverb, but a woman's opinion about what Rosalind should wear will pretty generally be determined by her own standards. (The composer is warned not to make that standard on pain of death.) One writer assures the public that Miss Wainwright "has a pair of very shapely limbs." He should be careful. Louis James is too robust for him to pretend to knowledge in that way.

HORSE NOTES.

Col. Hunt, Gentilly, and Everett have been turned out of training at New Orleans. A draft of racers from the Haggin stable will be sold at New York in the coming spring.

Perry & Morris, of New York, have sold for Gibbs Brothers the year-old bay stallion Byrd Wilkes, dam by Monroé Chief, for $2,500.

The French mare Plaisanterie, who won the Cambridgehire and Carrowitch three years ago, was sold to Sir Tatton Sykes at Chantilly for $2,400.

The good 2-year-old colt Champagne Charlie is just recovering from an attack of pneumonia, which luckily was abated before it became dangerous.

The temperature of water for horses is not so much an object as the purity of it. While it is best to have it cool, it is more important to have it free from all impurities.

William Walker, who was a large purchaser at Kentucky sales recently, and who is said to represent a confederation of colored trainers and jockeys, rode Ten Brock when he made his famous four-mile record of 7:12.

Beesham's Pills cure bilious and nervous ill.

THE FIGHT WAS A DRAW.

THE MAULIFFE-MYER CONTEST TAKES PLACE.

Sixty-Six Rounds Fought Without Victory for Either—Fifth Men in Good Condition at the End.

NORTH JUDSON, Ind., Feb. 14.—The great fight between Billy Myer and Jack McAuliffe for $1,000 and the championship took place Wednesday forenoon and resulted in a draw at the end of the sixty-sixth round. In this respect it was a great disappointment as the crowd of sports from all over the country who were present had hoped to see a finish fight and get "action" for their money. In fact, it was a disappointment all round.

After being badgered by the sheriff and the preliminaries interrupted several times during the night the crowd got thoroughly disgusted waiting around in this little place, and when, at 6 o'clock in the morning it began to look as if the fight would come off the sports were disposed to brook little further interference. After a great deal of talk Mike McDonald was selected to referee the mill and the preparations were completed.

When the ring was pitched for the second time the Sheriff interfered and declared that no fight should take place while Myer was with his right in the second round. Myer was induced to believe that it was only a boxing-match and went about his patrol duty.

At 6:25 o'clock McAuliffe climbed over the ropes, his appearance being greeted with loud applause. He was shortly afterwards followed by Myer. The former had for his seconds Billy Madden and Bob Brown, and the latter Tom Lees and Link Pope.

McAuliffe opened the battle by leading out with his left hand and landing on Myer's nose, at the same time giving him a rib-roaster with his right. In the second round Myer put in a hot one on Mac's neck, and got a rejoinder on his own nose. In recovering Mac slipped, and just saved himself from getting a terrific right hander from Myer, which, if landed, would have knocked Jack out.

At the opening of the third round McAuliffe led out with his right and then changing quickly to the left, he landed a left hand blow, getting a hammer from Myer's right in return. There was a rush and hot in-fighting, the round closing with a smaller from Myer's good right fist which landed square on Mac's face and staggered him. From this up to the ninth round both men sparred cautiously.

From the tenth to the thirteenth round there was hard hitting without any bruising or effective blows. In the fourteenth, however, Mac made one of his wild rushes and fell, with Myer on top of him. The other rounds up to the twenty-eighth were without particular feature, both men being about even so far as punishment was concerned. A surprise came, however, in the shape of a visit from the sheriff, who said that the town council had ordered him to stop the fight. There was a loud growl of discontent, and a moment later the official was unceremoniously hustled out and the fight went on.

Then followed a long series of comparatively harmless rounds, both men playing cautious dodges, though in a different way. McAuliffe did all the leading, while Myer was constantly on the lookout for a chance to counter. A number of pretty good blows were struck by both, with honors about even and the men equally fresh. The crowd grew tired of the work, and began to call on the fighters to do some effective work.

In the forty-third round the fighting became sharper, and in the forty-fourth Myer secured the first knock-down with a swinging left-hander. McAuliffe began to realize that it was impossible to tire his opponent out, and commenced hitting harder, in order to break Myer's wind. Both men were fresh and betting was still even at the end of the fifthth round.

At 11 o'clock fifty-two rounds had been fought without either man having gained any decided advantage, although Myer had a little the best of it. Both men fought strong but cautiously. Myer let McAuliffe do most of the leading, and then managed to get in effective counter.

In the sixty-sixth round, after four hours and thirty-five minutes of fighting, McAuliffe came up strong and fresh and took up his plan of winding Myer. His blows were directed at Myer's stomach, and he did some good work, but at the conclusion of this round the fight was declared a draw.

WELCOMING "THE CYCLONE" HOME.

Streator Turns Out to Meet His Pet—Anger at the Referee.

STREATOR, Ill., Feb. 14.—As the conquering hero comes from a glorious victory so Billy Myer returned to Streator Wednesday afternoon. At 5 o'clock a crowd numbering nearly one thousand surrounded the "31" depot as the special train steamed in from North Judson with the Streator party. Carriages were in readiness, and into one of these the little "Cyclone" was ushered. Despite the discoloration around his eyes he wore a smile as his friends crowded around to congratulate him. As he entered the carriage a mighty roar of approval went up from the crowd. It matters not what the Eastern party may think of the "Cyclone's" ability, the fact remains that he is more popular than ever in Streator. In the various sporting resorts around town last evening long, deep and loud are poured out upon the head of Referee McDonald. The general opinion by those in attendance was that Myer showed his superiority to McAuliffe in every stage of the fight, and that the referee's decision was unjust and little short of downright robbery. Myer is feeling in the best of spirits to-night. He expresses his willingness to accept the invitation of the California sporting club to meet McAuliffe for a finish fight in San Francisco for any amount, either Marquis of Queensberry or London prize ring rules.

Regulates the Kidneys and Bowels,
Gives Life and Vigor to every organ.

There's nothing like it. Use It Now!

"Last spring, being very much run down and debilitated, I procured some of Paine's Celery Compound. The use of two bottles made me feel like a new man. As a general tonic and spring medicine, I do not know its equal."
